American Revolution Center Curator to be featured on NBC's Who Do You Think You Are with Rob Lowe, April 27

Philadelphia, PA, April 24, 2012—Dr. R. Scott Stephenson, The American Revolution Center's Director of Collections and Interpretation, is featured on the April 27 edition of NBC's acclaimed series, Who Do You Think You Are? The series follows some of today's most beloved and iconic celebrities as they embark on personal journeys of self-discovery to trace their family ancestry.

In the April 27 episode, actor Rob Lowe ventures into his past, dating back to the American Revolution. Dr. Stephenson helps him decipher the clues. The program is broadcast at 8pm EST on NBC. Following the April 27 broadcast, the program will be available through the NBC website.

About The American Revolution Center

The American Revolution Center is a non-partisan, not-for-profit (501(c)(3) organization dedicated to engaging the public in the history and enduring legacy of the American Revolution. The Center owns a distinguished collection of objects, artifacts and manuscripts, and is working to establish The Museum of the American Revolution. The museum will be built in historic Philadelphia, just steps from Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell.
