

WELCOME

Start your visit today with Revolution in the Lenfest Myer Theater. This sweeping film explores the origins, experience, and ongoing legacy of the American Revolution.

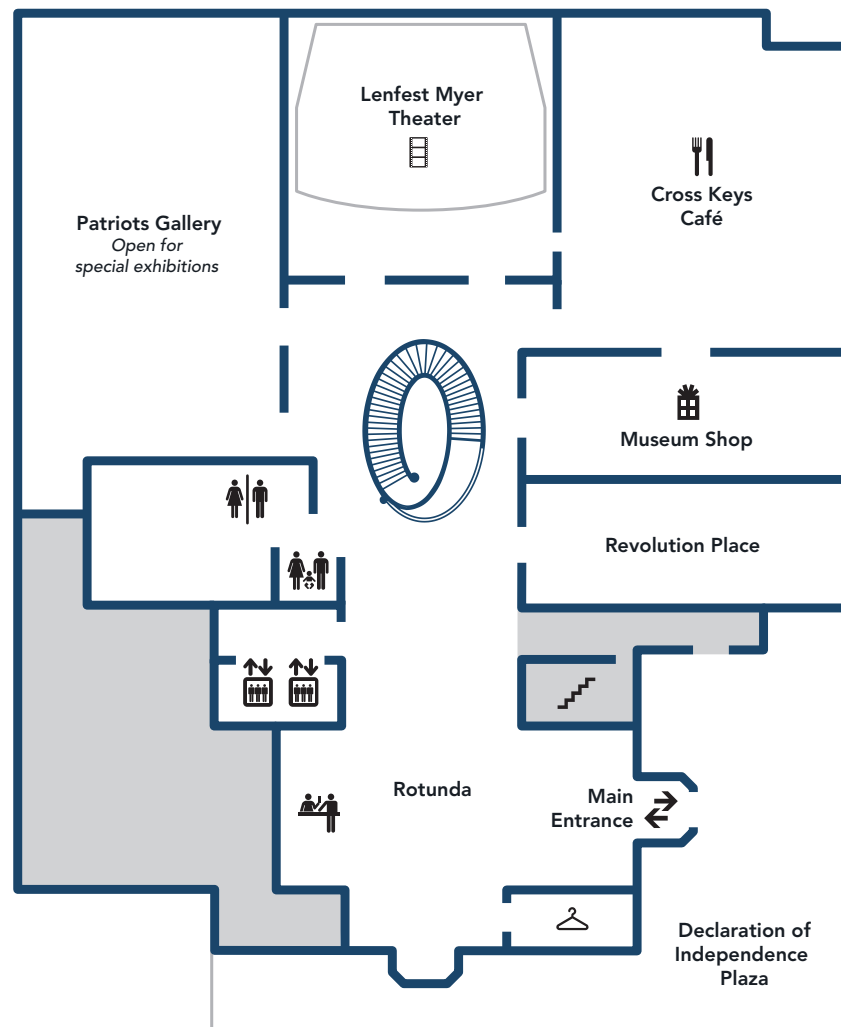

Head up our grand staircase to enter the core exhibition, where you are invited to explore the story of the American Revolution like never before. Along the way, you will meet our wonderful education team. Feel free to ask them any questions — they are always happy to talk with our visitors.

No visit is complete without seeing Washington's War Tent in the Alan B. Miller Theater. In the moving immersive film, follow General Washington's remarkable journey and sit in the presence of his original Revolutionary War headquarters tent. The film is offered every hour on the hour.

Visiting with children? Don't miss Revolution Place, our discovery center on the first floor. Set in 18th-century Philadelphia, Revolution Place features three key recreated historical environments — a military encampment, a tavern, and an 18th-century parlor — to immerse and engage families, especially kids 5 – 12 years-old, in the places where the American Revolution took root.

If you have limited time today, don't miss these exhibit highlights:

KING GEORGE'S STATUE

Walk into this immersive scene to experience the streets of New York City in 1776 as Americans tore down the equestrian statue of George III in New York City.

BOSTON'S LIBERTY TREE

In one of the Museum's most captivating immersive environments, stand beneath the branches and lanterns of a life-size reproduction of the Boston Liberty Tree.

INDEPENDENCE GALLERY

In an immersive theater, view the unfolding debate and decision-making as delegates to the Continental Congress passionately debate the break from England. Then read the words of Thomas Jefferson and the list of grievances levied against the King from authentic printings of the Declaration of Independence.

ONEIDA NATION GALLERY

In this gallery, stand among life-size replicas of members of the Oneida Indian Nation, listen, and become immersed in the intense debate that led to their decision to break with the Iroquois Confederacy and join the American cause.

BATTLE OF BRANDYWINE THEATER

Experience the fear and frenzy of being on the front line as you are confronted by an all-out British infantry charge at the Battle of Brandywine. The drama of war comes to life in this intense theater experience.

BOARD A PRIVATEER SHIP

Climb aboard a replica privateer ship to experience the war at sea. A favorite for kids of all ages!

THE WAR IN THE SOUTH GALLERY

In 1776, when Congress declared that "all men are created equal," hundreds of thousands of African Americans lived in slavery. Promises of freedom in exchange for military service came from both sides, but the decision for many enslaved African Americans was not an easy or clear-cut one.

WASHINGTON'S WAR TENT

Housed in a dedicated theater, Washington's tent is one of the most iconic surviving artifacts of the Revolution. Guests will be moved by this unique theater experience exploring Washington's leadership and this remarkable object.

PLAZA HIGHLIGHTS

Don't forget to check out the Declaration of Independence Plaza featuring a dramatic display of five cannons from the Revolutionary era, on loan from the Girard Estate in Philadelphia. Powerful words from the Declaration of Independence are emblazoned in limestone on one of the plaza's flanking walls.

The courtyards along Chestnut Street provide a welcoming space to relax and enjoy a set of bas reliefs. The first bas-relief is in the William and Laura Buck Revolution Courtyard and replicates Emanuel Leutze's Washington Crossing of the Delaware.

The second bas-relief is in the Marjorie and Lewis Katz Liberty Courtyard and features John Trumbull's The Declaration of Independence.
